There is nothing in this world
permanent except change.

Heraclitus

You're going through a lot of change these days.
Many people don't realize how tiring and trying such times can be.
However many times you've made transitions before, each new one creates its own set of demands.
Do take care of yourself
through the days ahead.
And remember that change always involves endings of one sort or another.
Yet for each ending you're experiencing,
a new beginning is possible,
when the time is right.
After autumn and winter,
there's always a spring. Always.
